Action at the national and subnational levels, and encourages coordination and coherence in the follow-up of their implementation;

7. Reaffirms that the least developed countries, as the most vulnerable group of countries, need enhanced global support to overcome the structural challenges they face in implementing the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development, and in this regard calls upon the international community to prioritize and strengthen support from all sources to facilitate the coordinated implementation and coherent follow-up to and monitoring of the Istanbul Programme of Action, the 2030 Agenda and the Addis Ababa Action Agenda in the least developed countries;

8. Expresses its concern that, in the context of the overall slowdown in the international economy, the least developed countries as a group are experiencing a slowdown in their economies, with growth rates falling from 5.1 per cent in 2014 to an estimated 4.5 per cent in 2015,⁹ which is significantly lower than the growth rate achieved between 2001 and 2010 and falls far short of the Sustainable Development Goal target of at least 7 per cent gross domestic product growth per annum¹⁰ in the near term, and that those countries that are highly dependent on commodity exports have seen a pronounced decline in their export earnings and gross domestic product growth;

9. Also expresses its concern that official development assistance (ODA) commitments have not been fulfilled, and reiterates that the fulfilment of all ODA commitments remains crucial to achieving sustainable development, and that ODA providers reaffirm their respective ODA commitments, including the commitment by many developed countries to achieve the target of 0.7 per cent of gross national income (GNI) for ODA to developing countries and 0.15 to 0.20 per cent of GNI for ODA to the least developed countries, expresses its encouragement at those few countries that have met or surpassed their commitment to 0.7 per cent of GNI for ODA to developing countries and the target of 0.15 to 0.20 per cent of GNI for ODA to the least developed countries, urges all others to step up efforts to increase their ODA and to make additional concrete efforts towards the ODA targets, encourages ODA providers to consider setting targets to provide at least 0.20 per cent of GNI for ODA to the least developed countries, and expresses its encouragement at those which are allocating at least 50 per cent of their ODA to the least developed countries;

12. Expresses deep concern that, in 2015, merchandise exports of the least developed countries contracted by 25 per cent, a significantly bigger drop than in 2014 and that as a result, the share of least developed countries in world merchandise exports decreased to 0.97 per cent, and therefore calls upon the members of the World Trade Organization to address the marginalization of the least developed countries in international trade and to improve their effective participation in the multilateral trading system, and to fully implement all the provisions specific to the least developed countries contained in the existing World Trade Organization agreements, ministerial decisions and declarations, including the 2015 World Trade Organization Ministerial Decision on the implementation of preferential treatment in favour of services and service suppliers of the least developed countries and increasing the participation of the least developed countries in services trade;

15. Stresses the need for the international community to remain vigilant in monitoring the debt situation of the least developed countries and to continue to take effective measures, preferably within existing frameworks, when applicable, to address the debt problems of those countries, including through coordinated policies aimed at fostering debt financing, debt relief, debt restructuring and sound debt management, as appropriate, for the multilateral and bilateral debt owed by the least developed countries to creditors, both public and private, reiterates the commitment to work through existing initiatives, such as the Heavily Indebted Poor Countries Initiative, and reaffirms the importance of transparency in debt management;

16. Recognizes that commodity diversification and value addition, as well as the effective participation of the least developed countries in regional and global value chains and in international trade in agricultural products, is a critical aspect of the efforts of those countries in reversing their marginalization, building productive capacities, accelerating structural transformation and generating full and productive employment and decent work for all, with a rapid and sustainable impact on poverty eradication;

20. Requests, in this regard, the Secretary-General to report to the General Assembly on the progress made on the issue of investment promotion regimes with a view to establishing an international investment support centre for the least developed countries under the auspices of the United Nations to provide a one-stop arrangement to help stimulate foreign direct investment in the least developed countries;

21. Expresses its deep concern that, owing to significant capacity constraints, the least developed countries are disproportionately affected by the adverse impacts of climate change, including persistent drought and extreme weather events, sea-level rise, coastal erosion, salinity intrusion, glacier lake outburst floods, ocean acidification and the rise in frequency, as well as the impact, of natural and man-made disasters, which further threaten food security and efforts to eradicate poverty and achieve sustainable development;

22. Underlines the need to reduce the vulnerability of the least developed countries to economic, natural and environmental shocks and disasters, as well as climate change, and to enhance their ability to meet these and other challenges by strengthening their resilience, and in this regard stresses that it is important that all countries and other actors work together to further develop and implement concrete measures in a timely manner at the national and international levels so as to build the resilience of the least developed countries to withstand economic shocks and mitigate their adverse effects, to withstand and overcome the adverse effects of climate change, to enhance sustainable growth and protect biodiversity and to
